A READING FROM THE BOOK OF CONCORD

FOURTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER PENTECOST THE LARGE CATECHISM, PART I, SEVENTH COMMANDMENT

Let me explain that it may be seen how godly we are. For example, consider a manservant or maidservant who does not serve faithfully in the house, does damage, or allows damage to be done when it could be prevented. He ruins and neglects the goods entrusted to him, by laziness, idleness, or hate, to the spite and sorrow of master and mistress. In whatever way this can be done purposely (I'm not talking about what happens by mistake and against one's will), you can in a year steal thirty or forty florins. If another servant had taken that much money secretly or carried it away, he would be hanged with the rope. But here you (while conscious of such a great theft) may even express defiance and become rude, and no one dare call you a thief.

I say the same also about mechanics, workmen, and day laborers. They all follow their evil thoughts and overcharge people, while they are lazy and unfaithful in their work. All these are far worse than burglars, whom we can guard against with locks and bolts and, if caught, can be treated in such a way that they will not commit the crime again. But against unfaithful workers no one can guard. One would rather lose ten times as much money from his purse. For here are my neighbors, good friends, my own servants, from whom I expect <every faithful and diligent service>, yet they cheat me most of all. (paragraphs 225-226)

Life Quotes

“A Christian funeral isn't the end. Yes, we don't deny death. That would be foolish and insensitive. But in Christ, we defy death. That's Christian. Because the dead don't stay down when Jesus is involved. They are saints triumphant! Encourage one another with these words.”

Rev. Peter Sulzle, St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church, Redwood Falls, Minnesota Illinois

About the Cover: The Lord, our Shepherd, cherishes each and every one of His sheep, so much so that if one goes missing, that one sheep becomes of singular importance. He has come to seek and save the lost (Luke 19:10). Our Shepherd continues to seek out wandering and lost sheep—us and those for whom we pray—in order to bring them into the fold of His merciful forgiveness, won by His cross and eternal protection.
